That negotiation failed to accomplish any result whatever, but an alliance between Columbia and the Presbyterian Hospital has been entered into for the same purposes as then contemplated and the following study of the same subject; hospitals and medical education has been made with the hope that it might assist in formulating plans for the future development of both the Presbyterian Hospital and the College of Physicians and Surgeons under that argeement. The opinions expressed in the following pages are entirely my personal views. They represent, so far as I know, in no sense the ideas either of any other member of the medical faculty or of the executive officers of the University. Nor have I consulted in preparing this paper the opinions of the members of the Medical Board or of the Board of Managers of the hospital. It seems to me that a full discussion of the problems now before the University and the hospitals should be had at the present time in order that this alliance may result in as perfect an institution for medical teaching and research as can possibly be brought about. In order that this end may be furthered I have had these pages...
