HEXMOND, a town in the Netherlands, province of North Brabant, lies 21 miles south-east from Boise-le-Duc, on the Aa and South Willemsvaart. It has a good haven. The principal industries are the manufacture of cotton, woollen, and linen fabrics, cotton-printing, dyeing, calendering, beer-brewing, and c. The pop. is nearly 7000. HELMONT, Jan Baptista Van, Lord of Merode, Royeulrareh, Oorschot, and Pellities, an eminent Belgian chemist, was born at Brussels in 1511, and died near Vilvorde in 1674. He went through the regular course of study at the university of Louvain, and on the completion of his education, he was offered and accepted the chair of surgery in that university, the duties of which he discharged for two years. The study of the works of Paracelsus seems to have turned his special attention to chemistry and natural philosophy, and in the pursuit of these sciences he spent several years in the different universities of Italy and France; after which he returned home, married Margaret van Kanst, a noble lady of Brabant, and settled down at his estate near Vilvorde, where he spent the remainder of his life in philosophic investigations of various kinds. It would be impossible, in the limits of this article, to sketch even an outline of his chemical discoveries. Writers of the history of chemistry regard him as the greatest chemist who preceded Lavoisier: and it is much to be regretted that his...
