D., Professor of Therapeutics and Materia Medica in the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia. Octavo, handsomely bound in cloth, 430 pages, 11 illustrations. Per annum, in four cloth-bound volumes, $10.00. Lea Brothers Co., Philadelphia and New York. Each volume of this excellent quarterly calls forth a generous expression of unqualified praise from its readers. The first issue of the series of 1901 is no exception to the rule, containing a practical, concise resume of the latest achievements in the scientific world. The first section, by Dr. Da Costa, deals with the Surgery of the Head, Neck and Chest. The high standard of excellence which has characterized the contributions by this writer in previous volumes is fully maintained. Special attention is called to the articles on plastic operations about the face; surgery of the lungs, and the most recent methods of dealing with pericardial effusions. In his article on the Acute Infectious Diseases, Dr. Packard has devoted much space to a careful consideration of the important subject of typhoid fever. In view of the immense amount of material which has accumulated during the past year concerning this disease, the writer is to be especially commended upon the compact form in which he has presented the matter without neglecting any point of importance. Dr. Crandall has given especial attention to the treatment of Disorders in Childhood and has added to his section a most valuable consideration of the practice of surgery upon...
