Excerpt: .which the boys had to cross to reach the opposite flat. Snigs bore Whoop-la, their tiger cat, and Ralph was the spokesman for this arctic-looking trio. Please, kind ladies, our mother is gone to see a sick friend--we think she may come home sicker than the friend was, owing to the weather! We thought we would blow in on you for shelter--the wind s on our side, and we feel tremulous-spined. Will you please let us sit by your gilt radiator, if you haven t a hearthstone? he pleaded. You shall share the warmth of our gilt radiator and have a gilt-edged welcome, you raving lunatics! Bob replied for his family. Get out of these trappings of woe, and tell us if you ever saw a windier, grayer, meaner day in all your lives. I had thought so, returned Ralph, letting Bob hold his...
